

Image not found or type unknown

Projektblatt Donau Chemie

A laser-scan was conducted to establish up-to-date planning documents for the planned conversion of an industrial plant for sulfur production. The scatter plot generated from this served as the basis for an edge-interference model. Our task was also to locate potential deposits on the chimney head of the plant. For this we deployed our drones to inspect the chimney.

<https://www.hagensberger.com/en/references/donau-chemie>

